

Personal Notes

Tuesday's election results show pretty clearly that the Republican party not only will control the House and the Senate, but also indicate that the next president, to be elected in 1948, will almost certainly be a Republican. With a Republican Congress and a Republican chief executive, the GOP will have four good years to show what it can do.

Historically the GOP has supported high tariffs on foreign products entering the U.S. as a measure to protect American industry from "cheap labor" competition from abroad. It seems reasonable to expect that the Republicans will use their new power to set up a tariff wall, just as they have always done in the past. At least that is what liberal Americans and foreign observers fear they will do.

During the war the U.S. loaned millions of dollars to foreign countries, and now is lending millions more. These loans are made as credit balances. That is, Britain now will have three billion dollar credit, practically all of which will be used to buy American goods—cotton, wheat, oil, etc.—in the U.S., to buy U.S. goods needed to restore her bomb-shattered country.

How will Britain and the other countries repay U.S. loans? They can't pay in gold, because the U.S. has most of the world's gold buried at Fort Knox, and if other countries shelled out from their meager supply, their currency would collapse. We don't really want that much more gold anyway. The only way the loans can be repaid is by way they were made—by credit balances. England will give us credit in pounds, and we will have to use those pounds where they are currency, that is, in England and her colonies and sterling bloc areas.

To get our money's worth we will spend this pound credit balance buying British goods, such as Scotch tweeds and whiskeys, Wedgwood china, Irish linen and other products which the English make better than the rest of the world.

But America has a wool and tweed industry—though the quality of our goods is inferior to British wool and tweeds, and all things equal, more expensive. Our wool industry will lobby for a high tariff on British goods (wool, china, and whiskey and linen) and if the Republicans vote true to their background, such tariffs will be passed. They will be passed on wines from France, olive oil from Italy, and other products which are made more expensively in America than abroad. Of course the American industries which make iceboxes and other products better and cheaper than the rest of the world won't ask for tariffs if they can stand without support from the government on the basis of equal competition with the world and still maintain an advantage.

But the point is, protective tariffs may be passed against the only goods we will want to buy from England. With a high tariff added to the price of a suit of British tweeds, no one will buy. And if no one buys British goods with the credit the British extend as debt payments, the debt will never be paid. There is no other way to pay these debts.

This is why practical Americans hope that the Republicans will not use their power to build a high wall of tariffs around America, permitting American goods to go abroad, but denying entry of debt-paying foreign products.

There are other angles too—if we establish high tariffs, other countries will retaliate, and our foreign trade will suffer. Furthermore, tariffs cost the consumer money. Without tariffs we could buy Portuguese olive oil more cheaply than American olive oil, but to protect a very small California industry, housewives pay extra for inferior oil. And lastly, although America is undamaged, Europe is in bad shape. To rebuild Europe and jobs for its millions it needs to trade with healthy America. Protective tariffs will kill European economy, create dangerous distrust and illfeeling, and starve the working men of Europe.

"Growing Pains"

Rehearsals are underway for "Growing Pains" this semester's three-act play at Sequoia High School, which will be given for the student body on Nov. 14 and for the public on Nov. 16.

Merlyn Uhlenberg will play the male lead, but the feminine lead will be shared by Hazel Deering and Aurora Mauretonio, each girl playing the role of the heroine for one performance.

Others in the cast are John Graham and Barbara Cole, who will play the parts of the hero's parent; Bill Reynolds, Barbara Johnson, Mary Ann, John Garrett, Dolores Barrientos, Ted Stevens, De Wayne Fulton, Creighton Seybold and John Sears are cast as friends of the hero and heroine.

Character parts will be taken by Diane Mervy, Ed Dundas, Karen Iverson and Pat Gilbert. Extra parts will be taken by Lois Wilk, Margie Chaudry, Janet Hampton, George Gundry, Bob Cossit and Chester Villalba.

"Growing Pains" was written by Aurora Rouverel and deals with the problems of two adolescents trying to adjust themselves to adult life.

A $35,000 Suit

The Macco-Morrison-Knudsen Co., target of protests by residents of Millbrae and San Bruno over blasting operations for the Mills Field runway extension, Saturday was named in a $35,000 damage suit by a Millbrae doctor who also asked a permanent injunction forbidding the firm to continue blasting.

The suit was filed in superior court here by Melvin Belli, attorney representing D. G. F. Norman, 15 Corte Nueva, Millbrae. The construction firm already had been ordered by the County Board of Supervisors to post a $200,000 bond to cover damage to homes in the area. After further protests the board had ordered the firm to reduce the blast charges to 2000 pounds, the effects of which are being examined today by County Engineer A. Grant.

The Macco Construction Co. and the Morrison-Knudsen Co. are co-contractors under a War Department contract for the runway at Mills Field. They are obtaining fill from the area between Millbrae and San Bruno.

In his complaint Dr. Norman says that the blasts have broken the plumbing in his home so that water now runs on the floor, and destroyed a goldfish pond. For damages to the house, he asks $15,000. Dr. Norman, whose office is in San Francisco, further states that he had purchased the house in Millbrae so that he could get rest which he says is essential to his medical work. He cannot use his house for this purpose, he states, and therefore asks $20,000 damages.

In the complaint, Doctor Norman says that the excavation work could be done without blasting, and he therefore asks the court to issue an injunction barring explosives, and also the use of trucks near his home.

Highway Safety Check

The California Highway Patrol will start cracking down on violators of the law which forbids the use of red lights on the front of vehicles, Capt. E. F. Cassell announced recently.

Red lights were permitted or condoned for private uses during the war, Captain Cassell said, but the emergency now is over and only authorized vehicles will be permitted to use such lights. He pointed out that only municipally-owned vehicles devoted to public health and safety work, such as police cars, ambulances, and fire trucks, may carry red lights without a permit.

The law allows the fire chief and one assistant fire chief to mount red lights on their private vehicles, but they must have a permit from the director of motor vehicles in Sacramento. Captain Cassell said that the highway patrol officer here is not authorized to issue such permits.

Red lights on the front of such vehicles as tow cars, automobiles owned by municipal officers or by persons peddling soling produce today the highway patrolmen have been instructed to issue citations when violations are found. Captain Cassell also announced that the highway patrol will check to see if vehicles are equipped with a meeting of the Bay Area Peace Officers Council in Oakland yesterday. Particular stress will be placed on the safety of cars, such as brakes, lights, windshield wipers and tires.

Ray Smith Resigns

Officer Ray Smith has resigned his position with the Menlo Park Police Dept., and Tony O'Campo took over his duties Friday night. Police Chief Jack Yount announced Saturday.

Plans of Smith, who finished his last tour of duty yesterday at 2 a.m., are indefinite, although he may go into business, Chief Yount said.

S.M. Man Injured

Herbert C. Cox, 26, 1849 Palm Ave., San Mateo, suffered minor injuries at 1:10 p.m. Friday when his car collided with another automobile and overturned on El Camino Real at Brittan Ave. in San Carlos.

The driver of the other car, Herbert O. Lindsay, 698 Hillside Oaks Dr., Menlo Park, told San Carlos police that he was crossing the highway from Brittan Ave. and did not see Cox until the latter struck him in the right rear fender.

Police had to extricate Cox, who was unconscious, from his car. Lindsay was taken to Community Hospital in the county ambulance, and released after emergency treatment.

1946-47 City Tax Bills

Some of the 1946-47 Redwood City tax bills are in the mail, and the others will be mailed within the next few days, employees in the office of Mrs. Nellie Miramontes, city tax collector, said last week.

The bills show property owners the amount each must pay toward the running of the city government this year.

The Mayor's Report

In preparing his yearly report to the city of San Carlos Mayor Patrick J. Kearns uncovered some strange facts which he explained at Friday night's meet of the city council.

For example, he said, through a quaint, if unbusinesslike custom of many years, thousands of dollars in fines collected by the city court are temporarily deposited in the personal account of the city judge. Without impugning the character of Judge Rupert Johnson, Kearns suggested that the matter be cleared up, and the started council concurred.

Another thing—"It would be a simple matter for City Treasurer Herb Bivander and myself to get rich in a hurry," Kearns said. He pointed out that he and other officials signed thousands of dollars worth of checks without proper bonding, and suggested a bonding of $20,000 for all public officials and employees except the councilmen who don't sign checks. A blanket bonding would reduce the heads to file inventories with the city clerk.

Other suggestions put forward by Kearns were the immediate increase of the city's public liability from $10,000 to $25,000, and the creation of a special account for payment of interest on bonds.

This year, Mayor Kearns declared, his report on the "state of the city" will be addressed to the public at large as well as to the council, so that the people shall learn the facts about their city which they should know, but aren't interested enough to discover for themselves.

According to the mayor, 35 per cent of the people of San Carlos don't even know the names of the members of the council and the various commissions. "If the people aren't sufficiently interested in their city, they aren't sufficiently interested in their state or country, because cities make up both the state and the country," Kearns said.

The Highway Patrol

Effective Monday motor vehicle registration was discontinued indefinitely at the highway patrol office in Redwood City, Capt. E. F. Cassell announced recently.

Cassell said that the move is temporary, but that he had received authorization from the highway patrol headquarters in Sacramento to discontinue the work until additional clerical help can be sent here.

The office here is far behind in its work, Capt. Cassell said, and the clerks must be used for patrol work. He pointed out that while the county has greatly increased in population, no addition has been made to the clerical staff of the highway patrol here. Those wishing to register vehicles will now have to go to Mayfield, San Francisco or directly to the motor vehicle registration department in Sacramento, Cassell said.

He Plead Guilty

Charles B. Wheat, Burlingame's "cat" burglar, Friday pleaded guilty to six counts of burglary, one of robbery and one of possession of a dangerous weapon. Superior Court Judge Aylett R. Cotton set Monday as time for sentence.

Wheat, 48-year-old part Negro, part Mexican, had charged discrimination by the grand jury which had indicted him on Aug. 13, because there were no Negroes on the jury.

He was arrested July 23 in a woodpile in Millbrae after a gun battle with police from Millbrae, San Carlos and San Mateo. He was brought to San Carlos by the highway patrolmen.

Later Wheat had confessed to burglarizing several Burlingame homes, ransacking the houses without awakening the occupants. He later led police to a room in San Francisco where part of the loot from the burglaries was recovered.

A Strange Fire

Heat from a jack-lantern resulted in a fire which caused $500 damage at the David A. Sullivan residence, 241 University Dr., Menlo Park, at supertime on Halloween.

The lighted pumpkin was sitting in the window of the living room and ignited Venetian blinds and drapes.

The fire scorched the wall and damaged the living room, causing $200 loss to the building and $300 loss to the furniture, Menlo Park firemen estimated.

A Liquor Theft

Burglars with a taste for good whisky but not for champagne, opened a side door of the Zombie Hut in East Palo Alto early this morning and took six bottles of blended whisky and scotch. Mrs. I. Cohen reported to sheriff's officers Friday.

None of the other bottles of liquor, or money in the cash register was touched, Mrs. Cohen said.

A Sane Celebration

Attendance at the annual YMCA Halloween party hit an all-time record last week when 1000 boys and girls and their parents filled every vacant seat and standing space at McKinley School auditorium.

An estimated crowd of 700 had been anticipated. Some youngsters went to the party and left because they could not get in. Secy. J. A. Batchelor reported.

The overflow attendance brought the declaration from Ralph A. Benson, chairman of the Halloween Committee, that "the party has grown to such a size that we must either find a larger place to hold it, or else have outdoors."

Possibility was seen that two separate parties will have to be held next year, if larger quarters are not found, with older youngsters attending one and the smaller children attending another.

Among suggestions for sites for next year's party or parties were the Sequoia football field, if lights could be provided, and Hawes Park.

The YMCA Halloween party is credited with keeping many youngsters off the streets and preventing vandalism.

Winners of the airplane rides on the Flying Scotsman were Marjorie Varieties, Bob Cerrato, Jimmy Baker, Claude deMoss and Donnie McLean. This group, accompanied by Batchelor, will take off from Palo Alto Airport tomorrow afternoon for a trip up the coast and down the East Bay side. The plane is a two-motored Beechcraft executive transport owned by National Airlines, Inc. It will be piloted by the firm's fulltime pilot.

Other prizes awarded included four autographed footballs, six autographed baseballs, a fielder's glove, four cameras, four story-book dolls, a kickball, 18 theater tickets, 16 football tickets and five YMCA shirts.

A program of entertainment were three movie cartoons, a tumbling exhibition, a Hi-Li exhibition, performances by Jan's Jesters, a musical comedy, impromptu stunts, B. B. Berman was master of ceremonies. Andrew Spinaz was stage manager.

Girl Scout Week

On Tuesday a group of Girl Scouts met at the home of Mrs. C. K. Graves on Brewster Ave. to hear Mrs. Anthony Franco, president of the Girl Scouts of the Peninsula, speak to them.

Mrs. Franco outlined her work with the Girl Scouts in Britain before the war. She said that she and 40 girls were on a camping trip, she said. For almost an hour the local girls asked questions of Mrs. Franco following her talk.

The two troops present were Mrs. Hazel Moody's Troop 58 with Mrs. Agnes Simpson as co-leader and Mrs. Nathan Silen's Troop 21 with Mrs. Bruce Richards as co-leader. Also assisting was Mrs. R. W. Stefans.

Girls present were Nancy Graces, Martha Hughes, Mary Kay, Kay Moody, Judith Malone, Donna Pierce, Jeanette MacAdams, Marilyn Patten, Shirley Simpson, Jean and Joan Steffins, Ronelda Wheat, Agnes, Mary, Helen, Joan, Joanne and Jeanne Pickering, Rhea and Purdon, Joan Richards, Diane Rutledge, Edith Solen and Joan Ward of Troop 21.

New Policemen

Two new Alhambra police officers were announced this week by Police Chief Ed Farrell.

Martin Frederick of Menlo Park took over his new duties Friday and David Silva of Alhambra, who gave a tentative appointment to L. Both are Sequoia High School graduates. Officer Frederick served as a lieutenant in the marine corps during World War II, while Officer Silva was in the merchant marine.

Officer Silva succeeded Peter Bolch, who is now a deputy sheriff, and materials used in the home-cleaning process. He is the only home-service type cleaner in the Bay Area, and he works along the entire Peninsula.

Neuman has not tendered his resignation as city councilman as yet.

At stag dinner in honor of Neuman for his recent resignation was attended by other city councilmen and city officials.

Companions

Sequoia Circle 1568, Companions of the Forests of America, enjoyed a Halloween party at the Foresters Hall on Friday evening. Families and friends were invited.

Costumes were worn and games played. Mrs. E. E. Nelson won first prize for the most unique costume. Pumpkin pie, doughnuts, cider and coffee were served late in the evening.

A public card party will be given tomorrow evening at the Foresters Hall. Mrs. J. E. Robertson is chairman of the committee.

They'll Cheer Vets

"It seems that everyone is desirous of serving the hospitalized veteran. Cooperating from every part of the county and from every type of club has combined in an effort to make this the best Christmas ever for the men and women at the Veterans' Administration Hospital in Palo Alto," George Mann, chairman of the executive committee of the Veterans' Hospital Christmas Committee of the Peninsula, announced this week.

Mann declared that there had been a "fine response" from county organizations to a request from the committee for representatives to serve in the hospital units for the Christmas celebration planned by the group for the hospital.

Committee units working on conjunction with the special services department at the hospital, Mann said, will plan and execute all the details connected with the ten-day Christmas celebration planned at the hospital. These committees and chairmen include: Entertainment, Mrs. Clifford Burlingame; Redwood City Kiwanis; gift selection, Mrs. William Wise Jr.; San Mateo; gift wrapping, Mrs. Belton Wadsworth; decorations, Mrs. W. W. Wadsworth.

Other committees now functioning are: Finance, headed by James F. Furlong Jr., Belmont; Liaison, with Mrs. Isabel Lindquist of Menlo Park as chairman, and public relations with Edward J. Foley of Burlingame in charge. The latter committee has lined up a group of speakers.

Officers of the committee include A. H. Sagerhorn, San Carlos, president; Frank P. O'Brien, Belmont, vice president; David J. Stollery, San Mateo, second vice president, and J. Elmer Morrish, Redwood City, treasurer. Besides this, there is a board of about twenty directors.

A mass meeting has been called by the president for 8:30 p.m., Nov. 14, at the San Mateo city hall, to which all organizations are asked to send representatives.

Luck Was With Them

Two Mountain View men escaped death on their way to work last week when their car was struck in the rear by Southern Pacific Commuter Train 127 in Sunnyvale.

Basilio Llamas, 33, of Castro Stn., suffered a possible fracture of the spine and was admitted to Palo Alto Hospital.

Also riding in the car was Frank Barreras, 33, 1094 Washington St., Mountain View. Sunnyvale police said it had not been determined whether the car was hit from the rear or the side.

The car was not hit squarely but rather was pushed to one side by the train, Sunnyvale police reported. They believed this was one reason the men weren't hurt more seriously.

The accident happened at the Sunnyvale Ave. crossing in Sunnyvale at 7:15 a.m. The train was headed toward San Francisco. The men are employed at a Sunnyvale road equipment construction company.

Lewis Vannier

Lewis C. Vannier, 67, long-time Belmont resident and former member of the Belmont City Council died at noon Friday following a long illness.

Mr. Vannier, a native of San Francisco, was on the council at the time of the town's incorporation in 1926, and served as a councilman for 19 years. He was a member of Palo Alto Lodge 1471, BPOE, and American Legion Post 377, Belmont.

He leaves three children, Mrs. Florence Henwood, and Doris and Ernest Vannier.

A New Firm

Fabric Cleaners of 1139 King St., owned by Truman E. Harris is the recently opened shop which cleans rugs and upholstered furniture in the home.

Harris is the state distributor for Hinson and Sons, who make the equipment and materials used in the home-cleaning process. He is the only home-service type cleaner in the Bay Area, and he works along the entire Peninsula.

Neuman has not tendered his resignation as city councilman as yet.

At stag dinner in honor of Neuman for his recent resignation was attended by other city councilmen and city officials.

The Cook Was Crook

A former head chef at the Villa Chartist was under arrest Saturday on a charge of grand theft following an inventory that showed losses of $11,000 from the restaurant in the past three months.

San Mateo police were bringing Otto Schoenherr from Marysville where he had been taken into custody by the sheriff.

Murphy, proprietor of the Villa Chartist, told Police Chief Robert E. O'Brien that Schoenherr had stolen goods and supplies from the restaurant and had quit a week ago after opening his own place near Marysville.

Within the past month, according to Murphy, the former chef had been operating the "La Conga," on the Sacramento highway about three miles from Marysville. Murphy said he drove up a few days ago, wanted property that belonged to the Villa Chartist, and that Schoenherr had admitted "taking some stuff."

The inventory was then ordered, showing a loss for the past quarter of $11,000, compared with previous three-month periods.

Gardening Tips

BY ROLLY LANGLEY

It's only natural that rose bushes which have borne all season should show a few signs of the wear and tear—that some of the leaves die early. So it's not surprising that Mrs. G. Baker of Richmond noted this condition on her bushes. However, defoliation has been hastened by a case of insects which have eaten numerous holes in the leaves. And she's sprayed, she says.

Often people report they've sprayed and still damage is done. I assume in such cases that they've sprayed regularly every week, for that's the only way you can control the action of the insects. Then the question arises, was the coverage thorough, top and bottom. And next, was the right kind of insecticide used.

There've been more than enough greenhouses which used a contact spray to kill chewing insects, and vice versa (I mean try to). Naturally, if you use a stomach poison to cover the leaves, you want to kill a sucking insect which sticks its proboscis through and taps the sap inside the leaf.

Again, a number have reported that they have thoroughly applied rotenone which is supposed to control chewing insects, but had little luck. Of course rotenone is not one of the stronger stomach poisons. Indeed, its action is supposed to come more from paralyzing the insects, just as it does fish in tropical waters.

Anyway, you're not supposed to use rotenone on ornamentals when you can get sure results by spraying with an arsenical, applied with vegetable coloring added, to hide the residue.

"I am a beginner," confesses Mrs. K. Keski. "I have planted ranunculus in front of red stock plants as a border, which doesn't seem wise now. Since the bed, which is in the front yard, I want something blooming there most of the year."

"Would it be harmless or practical to plant gypsophila close behind the bulbs? Or what would be the best? What is the best time to look like when the bulbs are in the curing stage. I am wondering."

"I have sold bolting cabbage in the garden now. The other vegetables got a start during the hot weather."

"I have followed your advice in that I got acquainted with the nursery man sent for literature from U. C. Agricultural Extension Service and started compost. I got some valuable free advertising charts at the flower show last spring."

"As a beginner, I bought too many seed packets and planted too many radishes. May scabias be planted now? My compost pile was drawing sowbugs and other freaks by the score. Besides lime, I used 5 per cent DDT. . . . And what's the best spray against aphids on stocks?"

I think white stocks would be better just in back of the ranunculus than gypsophila, which grows about 3 feet high, and would make quite a step up. Stocks would not grow about 20-24 inches, while ranunculus would be 9-12 inches high.

Scabias can be planted now, or early next spring. Perhaps next spring would be a better bet, although if you have plenty of seed and space, a gamble will be interlarded further south, they'd plant them this fall without a risk.

As for planting too many radishes. That's apparently the curse on this vegetable. People plant 'em, plant 'em too many, and then don't try them again soon enough.

Actually, people don't want many radishes at a time, and a small bed of them, successive planting every three weeks or so, will give you a family in supply the year around.

California Bureau of Economics' statistician on fruits and nuts reports that we can expect more oranges this coming naval season, with a few less lemons and grapefruits. In California for 1946, 80 per cent of oranges, as against 79 per cent last year. In Florida, in percentages, for 1946, 80 per cent for 1945, Texas, 79 as against 80 for last year. In Arizona, 82 compared with 77, and in Louisiana, 84 this year, as compared with 65 per cent last year.

Sex Crimes Crackdown

In a threatened crackdown on juvenile sex offenses in San Mateo County, Superior Court Judge Edmund Scott recently issued bench warrants for two members of the San Francisco Madrid St. gang and set $5000 cash bail for each of five others charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 13-year-old grammar school girl.

The five held in the county jail are Manuel Jackson Jr., 35, Robert L. Varin, 22, Thomas A. Perez, 22, Tony Castaldo, 18 and Walter Tighe, 17, all of San Francisco. The first three were arrested and four others escaped Tuesday night during a Coastside raid by about 30 Peninsula peace officers. The last two were picked up in San Francisco after statements by others had implicated them.

Sought on the bench warrants are Albert "Congo" Laguillo, 22, and Richard "The Mope" Rodriguez, 27.

John Goughill, chief probation officer, said that the girl, the case will face a charge of immorality in juvenile court here and will be transferred to the San Francisco juvenile court.

Twin Blessings

Twin sons were born in Pittsburgh to Mrs. and Mrs. Roy Stewart, formerly of San Carlos. New arrivals are the grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Stewart of San Carlos.

They have been named George William and Timothy Cloney. Mr. Stewart is connected with the Bank of America at Pittsburgh.

A Pioneer's Death

BY DON ALLAN

A chapter of San Mateo County history that began in the days of the lumber camps, ox teams and stage coaches 87 years ago closed last week with the death in Community Hospital of Walter Knight, pioneer stage coach operator.

Four generations in Redwood City have known Walter Knight. One of his contemporaries, Mrs. Mamie Glennon was a classmate of his at the old Woodside School recalls that he was born in the now submerged town of Searsville, and the county recorder's office supplies the date—Nov. 22, 1858.

Two generations remember Walter Knight as the agent of the Wells-Fargo Express Co., and owner of the stage line from Redwood City to Pescadero. Younger generations know him as a source for first-hand information about the days when the hills behind Redwood City resounded to the noises of thousands of lumberjacks hewing redwood timber for shipment from the Redwood City port.

Knight took over the stage line from his father, James Knight, its founder. He maintained a barn on the east side of El Camino near the site of the present Sadler Supply Co., and carried passengers and mail from Redwood City over the La Honda Grade to La Honda, San Gregorio and Pescadero.

Two stage coaches, each carrying nine passengers inside and outside, drove over the four and six horse teams, depending on the season, made the trip to Pescadero in 10 hours. Leaving Redwood City at 8 a.m., Mrs. Glennon recalled, the coach service was in operation until the Sky Londa summit, and would reach La Honda at noon for lunch. The trip terminated at Pescadero at 6 p.m. Knight also made stage trips as far south as Newhall and north to Willets.

At the time of the first world war progress put an end to the line, which served the route for more than 50 years. Knight sold his mail route and line to a man with a newfangled invention—an autobus. The drivers of the old coach are dead, and with the passing of Knight another link with the past is lost.

For many years Knight had been living at 545 S. St., San Carlos. His death followed a short illness. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Lena White of Burlingame, and a cousin, Charles Knight of Redwood City.

He was buried in Woodlawn Memorial Park in Colma, and was survived by a part of San Mateo County history.

The Crocker Estate

The County Planning Commission Friday afternoon granted the petition of the Crocker Estate to have part of the estate land into an industrial area after representatives of the firm had reached a compromise with Brisbane residents who had protested the rezoning.

Louis B. Demattei, attorney representing the people of Brisbane, told the commissioners that an agreement creating a residential "buffer state" at the north end of Brisbane had been agreed to by the Crocker Estate representatives at a meeting held Tuesday evening.

The compromise also reclassified the area around the new "buffer state" into light industrial. The majority of the land, which has been an agricultural zone, now will be heavy industrial.

The area affected in the rezoning includes Guadalupe Valley, the huge north of the valley and land extending around Brisbane. William Morton, treasurer of the Crocker Estate Co., said that his firm plans to level the ridge, fill the valley and use the whole area as a site

Ruth Carlisle says that "they" say if you thank people for slips of plants, the slips don't grow. In my opinion, that is the sort of saying that ought to be surpassed by some proverb which would lead to greater cooperation among greenhumpers. Since Ruth Carlisle wrote that note in May, I put it to a test, realizing that I would not do to question the truth of the saying without having some proof.

I was given a slip by a traffic officer for staying too long at one point on the curb. He was making it out as I arrived back at home, so I thanked him for it. "Thanks, officer," I said. "That makes everything just dandy. I'll get busy this very afternoon and see what I can do with it." I thanked him, though, in fact, I plumb forgot about it. Result? It grew—from a $1 to a $3 fine.

Next, I was walking the pooch one day in the park, and he gave me the slip. I mentally thanked him, for I was ready to sit and meditate for a bit, quite certain he'd be home when I got there. But he wasn't. Indeed, he had been gone several weeks ago and the slip had developed into a complete disappearance and mystery. Has anyone a nice male pup? (I won't accept a slip again, if I get one.)

At this point some of you may be protesting: "Slips of plants," Ruth Carlisle said, I know. So—A neighbor presented a slip of Dodonaea viscosa, an evergreen that does well in the sun. I recut the end with a razor, dipped it briefly in hormone powder and put it in a moist bed of sharp sand. It's growing, and I thanked the neighbor profusely (as a test) at the time of presentation. P.D.Q. All the things "they" say are not necessarily true.

I suppose you heard what the U. S. Department of Agriculture said when a farmer wrote: "My fields are literally covered with dandelions. What shall I do about it?" The reported reply: "Learn to love dandelions."

Actually, dandelions in the lawn can be controlled by the use of a spray containing 2-4-D.

Dr. L. A. White of Sacramento (512 California State Bldg.) wants Albert J. Vogt of Oakland to get in touch with him, re Indian corn. (Sorry, Dr. I don't have Vogt's address now, but maybe he'll see this.)

Frank J. Serpa of San Leandro asks, "What is the proper sand to be used for cuttings of such succulents as azaleas, tree peonies and such?"

Sharp sand is recommended, because it is coarse and allows better ventilation. Sea sand has too much alkaline material. Usually, the sand sold by building supply dealers for the making of concrete is satisfactory. Coarser sand is even better. For rooting of cuttings, pumice has found considerable backing among both commercial growers and research workers. There's nothing but rot in either pumice or clean sand.

Several communities in Central California are to be congratulated on their freedom from nematodes. Certainly Agricultural County, headed by B. Laing of Alameda County is to be praised for the way in which this troublesome pest has been kept out of his bailiwick. And Santa Clara County is lucky in that nematode pests have not established a foothold there.

The nematode is a small "eel-worm," too small for most people to detect with the naked eye. It enters the root and lives there, causing a swelling which the naked eye can see.

Whenever you're pulling old plants out of the garden, pay particular plants that haven't done well, give attention to root conditions. Sometimes you'll find the answer to your trouble there. You ever suspect nematode damage? Take a sample of the root to your agricultural commissioner's office for verification. If you have nematodes in your garden, your A. C. will be interested. (Please don't send such samples through the mail.)

Chef Pleads Innocent

Otto Schoenherr, former head chef at the Villa Chartier, San Mateo, pleaded innocent when he was arraigned in San Mateo Municipal Court Saturday on charges of grand theft and was released on $2500 bail.

He is accused of having equipped his newly established restaurant in Marysville with supplies stolen from the Villa Chartier when he was working there.

Emerson Murfee, owner of the Villa Chartier, told police an inventory had shown a loss of $10,000 in the last three months. Schoenherr had quit his job at Villa Chartier a week ago and opened his own restaurant in Marysville.

Date for preliminary hearing will be set later.

Prall Is in Trouble

What with horses, cars and checks, life is complicated these days for J. L. (Jiggs) Prall, ex-manager of the Palomar Stables in Colma.

Prall, who also goes by the name of Lowell Stewart, is 40, wears a 10-gallon hat, Levis and cowboy boots.

His boots and all, Prall this week is in Modesto County Jail. He was arrested Sunday in Martinez after a Daly City service station operator, T. K. Wisnes, signed a complaint charging Prall with giving him a bad check.

A $25 check Prall gave him bounced, Wisnes told Dep. Sheriff Pete Bolich. Wisnes politely called this to Prall's attention, he said, and Prall swore to make it good. So he bought a battery and some tires for his car, and gave Wisnes a check for $75 to cover the whole amount. He then disappeared.

And the check bounced.

So Wisnes signed the complaint. But Prall was being investigated by sheriff's officers here on another complaint.

Norman J. Salus, Yreka ranchman, told sheriff's officers that he had left two horses, a Palomino and a Morgan mare, in Prall's care when the latter still was Palomar manager.

That was about Oct. 10. Nov. 1, Salus went to see his horses and cover them gone. So was Prall.

Salus said that he found out that Prall had sold his horses to another man who also had sold one of them. Prall will be returned here on the bad check charge, Acting Chief Dep. Sheriff Jack O'Brien said Monday, and faces a possible grand theft charge on Salus' complaint.

A Humane Profession

Dr. Emmet W. Paul, veterinarian, has returned from service in the army and opened the Blue Cross Pet Hospital on Rogers St., near the Bayshore Highway for the treatment of small animals.

Dr. Paul came to Redwood City in 1939 and opened the Redwood Pet Hospital which he operated for 3 years, until he entered the Army Veterinary Corps in 1942 as a first lieutenant.

He served in the Hawaiian Islands in the anti-sabotage and anti-biological warfare branches of the army working on food conservation and on food programs to prevent the army and navy stationed in the islands from poisoning. He also had charge of a veterinary hospital near Honolulu where he worked with large and small animals.

He was discharged from the service in January of 1946 with the rank of major and worked in a large pet hospital in Hawaii for six months until he returned to Redwood City.

A New Shop Area

Redwood City's newest shopping center containing six stores and 12 offices, all in one building, is located on Winslow St., just off Broadway.

The building was planned by its owner, Cosmo Falcone, to serve as a center where a variety of goods might be purchased within a few feet of each other.

The stores include Sydney's, a linen and silver shop owned by Sydney Guterman; The Winslow Shoppe, a ladies' apparel shop owned by Ada L. Jack and Cecelia A. Phelan; The Treasure Chest, which sells gifts, greeting cards and rents books, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Phelan; Charlart, a photographic studio specializing in weddings and owned by Charles Rider, and the, as yet unopened, Western Union Office and the Redwood City House of Music, which will sell musical instruments and all of the latest records.

The center's 12 offices, which will open soon, are to be leased to professional men and women, most of whom are veterans, according to present plans.

Three Injured

Three persons were injured Monday night in traffic accidents on San Mateo County roads.

Cyril Melford Doane, 45, of 8 East Bellevue Ave., San Mateo, is in South San Francisco Hospital with a fractured knee and lacerations of the scalp sustained when the car he was driving collided head-on with another operated by A. P. Fernandez, 37, a Belmont sanitarium busboy, on Bayshore Hwy., near the entrance to Mills Field.

Doane told California Highway Patrol officers that he was blinded by headlights of oncoming cars. Fernandez was released from South San Francisco Hospital after he received treatment for minor lacerations.

Cheney Lloyd White, 43, Pasadena carpenter, is in Community Hospital with broken ribs sustained when his car plunged off the road and overturned on a curve on Coast Hwy., about three miles north of Half Moon Bay.

The Cat Goes to Jail

Monday was the end of the trail for the "Cat Burglar."

The 48-year-old part-Negro, part-Mexican Charles E. Wheat, was sentenced by Judge Aylett R. Cotton in superior court here to San Quentin on six charges of burglary, one of robbery and one of possession of a gun.

The California Adult Authority will set the term of imprisonment for Wheat, a six-time loser. The law provides 1 to 15 years for each count of burglary; 1 year to life for robbery, and 10 years additional for three burglaries and the robbery during which Wheat carried a gun.

Judge Cotton recommended that the sentences run concurrently, but even at that Wheat probably will spend the rest of his life in San Quentin.

Wheat was arrested July 23 behind a woodpile in Milbrae after a running gun battle with police from Milbrae, Burlingame, San Mateo, Hillsborough and Alameda.

He was nicknamed the "Cat Burglar" after he had scaled the walls of homes in Burlingame and Milbrae, entered windows without knocking over flowerpots and rifled rooms in which occupants were asleep.

Wheat pleaded guilty to three burglaries on July 20, the homes of Fred Blackett and Guy L. Ray, Burlingame, and of the Dress Shop in San Mateo. He was unnamed during these forays. On July 22, he burglarized the homes of Frank Zito and George Marks, Milbrae, and he also admitted the burglary and robbery of the Harry W. Holton home on the same night.

During the commission of the last four crimes, he carried the .38 caliber revolver with which he fought police.

San Quentin will be no stranger to Wheat. His record reads like a "Crime Does Not Pay" serial.

Wheat's first arrest was in Los Angeles on May 13, 1913, when he was 15, for impersonating a federal officer. He was sent to a federal reformatory in Idaho. His career of crime started a few years later, as shown by the convictions:

Nov. 6, 1916—Wheat was convicted of forgery in Los Angeles County and served a term in San Quentin.

Feb. 18, 1919—Under the name of James W. Thompson, he was convicted of forgery in Alameda County and served a term in San Quentin.

Nov. 23, 1921—Under the name of Walter Daniel Smith, he was convicted in the Multnomah County Superior Court of larceny and served a term in Oregon State Prison at Salem.

June 21, 1927—He was convicted in King County Superior Court of burglary and served a term in the Washington State Prison at Walla Walla.

June 1, 1934—Wheat was convicted in the Cook County Court at Evanston, Ill., of burglary and served a term in the Illinois State Prison at Joliet.

At the Cow Palace

The Grand National Horse Show which will be held at the Cow Palace, Nov. 15 to 24, took on a truly national aspect Tuesday with an announcement that winners from both the Lexington, Ky., and Kansas City American Royal Shows would be among the competitors.

The Grand National, which will be held in conjunction with the Grand National Livestock Exposition and Rodeo, lists four $1500 stakes, seven for $1000 and seven for $500 in its 10 night and 150 matinee showings, with a total of $35,000 plus added entry fees, for prize money.

A premier entry is the world champion five-gaited stallion Beau Gallant, of Clifford Moores' stables in Lexington.

Another top entry announced today was that of the three-gaited mare, Oakridge Glory, recent winner at the American Royal. The mare will be shown by Mrs. A. W. Pike of Redwood City, who recently purchased her.

In the Palomino classes, 31 of the Golden horses with a record of victories in all major shows of the Far West have been entered, headed by the undefeated Golden Bomber, grand champion of the All-Palomino Show at Phoenix, Ariz., this year, were entered by Harry Menicucci of Oakland.

Bomber and a stable mate, Golden Cloud, were entered by Harry Menicucci of Oakland. Other outstanding Palominos are Mrs. Gerald Gray's Golden Flight up from Corona, Sady Cimaron and Commander Cimaron owned by Cobyler West Co., of Shafter; Don Julian entered by Wm. P. Baker, San Francisco and Santa Barbara, owned by A. V. Morabito, San Francisco.

The registered Arabian stallion Shereen, owned by Payne's Bar-N-Arabian ranch of Whittier, also will be shown in the stock horse classes.

A San Carlos Wedding

A wedding of much interest in the Bay Region took place Friday night, Nov. 1, at the San Carlos Community Church when the Rev. James Lay Sprigg of the San Carlos Baptist Church and Pearl Alice Woolfolk of Berkeley were united in marriage at an 8 o'clock candlelight service. Dr. Sanford Fleming, president of the Berkeley Baptist Divinity School officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The wedding was decorated with white chrysanthemums and red roses. The bride and groom stood at the altar before a gold cross with white satin background.

The front and sides of the church hid lighted candelabra. During the service the choir of the Berkeley Baptist Divinity School sang "Dedication" and "Benediction."

There were also solos and a duet, "The Holy Hymn," by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ingamells, and music by Mrs. S. L. McPherson of San Carlos.

For the ceremony the bride wore a wedding gown with fitted satin bodice with sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves and satin covering the back, and a white net skirt extending in a short train. The finger tip veil was held together with a taria of orange blossoms and she carried a white orchid corsage and orchid marker. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom.

The bride's maid of honor, Miss Jane Erion of Berkeley, wore a rose satin gown fashioned with a short jacket and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and bouquets of white and red roses.

Best man duties were performed by Max Powers of Berkeley and the ushers were Ted Schupbach and Alfred Wain of San Carlos.

Acting as candlelighters were Robert Verree and Catherine Peoples, also of Berkeley.

Following the ceremony the bride and groom greeted the several hundred guests in the church hall. The bride's mother, Mrs. Sam Woolfolk of Pratt, Kas., wore black velvet with black accessories and the bride wore white.

The groom's father is Horace Sprigg of Torrington, Wyo.

For her going away costume the bride wore a blue wool dress with black accessories and a black hat trimmed with blue ostrich feathers and pinned on her white orchids. The newlyweds are honeymooning in the Santa Cruz Mountains, after which they expect to return to San Carlos.

The groom, a graduate of Ottawa University, is a student of the Divinity School in Berkeley and minister for the First Baptist Church in San Carlos.

The bride, who has been making her home recently in San Carlos at the Arthur Shermans, 1188 W. St., was recently feted before the wedding by San Carlos friends and those of the Bay Region. Friday night a party of 24 gathered at the bride's home, and the wedding rehearsal following which refreshments were served.

The bride is a graduate of Ottawa University and of the Berkeley Divinity School where she received her M.A. She has been teaching in week-day religious classes in South San Francisco, San Bruno and Palo Alto.

They Elope Instead

Just a month before they were to have been married in a big church wedding, Margaret Jane Brickell, daughter of socially prominent Mrs. Walter H. Linforth of Atherton, and Walter Ross Stewart of Menlo Park eloped and were married yesterday afternoon in Carson City, Nev.

A long distance telephone call from the Nevada capital to Mrs. Linforth revealed the surprise elopement.

The young couple's engagement was announced early in October by the bride's mother.

Margaret is a graduate of Castilleja and attended the Sacred Heart Convent in Menlo Park. Her father was the late Howard Brickell, millionaire San Francisco realtor.

The bridegroom is the son of the Walter Stewarts of Menlo Park. He recently returned from Singapore after completing five years' duty with the merchant marine.

Automobile Overturns

One car tipped over following a collision at Alejandra Ave. and El Camino Real in Menlo Park Sunday afternoon. The car was driven by William M. Humphrey, 16, student at the Menlo School, the other by William G. La 2, 637 Hurlingame Ave., Redwood City. No one was hurt.

In another intersection crash, cars operated by Melvin Savage, 22, 249 Austin Ave., Atherton, and Antonio Simonini, 29, 139 Tuacalosa Ave., Atherton, were involved. The accident occurred Sunday afternoon at Tuscaloosa and Austin Aves.

These Towns Grow!

The San Carlos Building Dept. issued permits on construction valued at $484,750 during the month of October. Alyse Rodgers, building department clerk announced Monday.

Forty-six homes accounted for $335,000 of this total and business buildings and factories contributed $139,750. The month's total equals $4,729,300, she said.

Thirteen of the 18 permits issued in Belmont during October were for homes with a total valuation of $122,250.

The Belmont townships, which equaled $132,825 including a $6000 service station, Belmont Building Insp. John G. Smith announced Monday.

Smith, who doubles as judge in Belmont, also disclosed that October was a record month for traffic fines. Collected was $1038 on 7 traffic violations, the highest fine being a $85 penalty for a speeder who passed through the city at 90 m.p.h.

Menlo Prowl Car

Latest model in police cars—a two-tone blue and gray—has been ordered by the Menlo Park prowler car received this week.

Police Chief Jack Yount remarked that the color scheme "isn't what I would have chosen for a police car, but having waited a year for delivery, I am not inclined to quibble about it."

Gardening Tips

BY ROLLY LANGLEY

A good friend of mine who's had considerable experience with a wide range of horticultural plants makes an observation on azaleas which will interest you. Azaleas are already popular and their use in gardening is on the increase despite the difficulty some greenhumpers experienced difficulty with them. He writes:

"My experience with azaleas in this area indicates that there are two principal causes for azalea dying: one is the work of the larvae of the Brachytrichus beetle. These animals, if numerous in a garden, will gnaw the azalea plants just below the surface of the ground. This is particularly true of small young plants.

"The other most common cause for decline of azaleas is a root-rot condition in which the roots become so compact that it is impossible for water to reach the lower root structure. The remedy should be to re-pot, if the azaleas are in pots, and if they are being grown in the open ground, they should be lifted every year, the roots combed out, and the plant repotted in a larger hole."

Of course azaleas should have a rather acid soil. They'll scarcely tolerate even a slightly alkaline soil, and even on a neutral soil, the leaves are apt to be yellowish. The addition of soil sulphur around the plants already growing might be beneficial. Fine needles are recommended for a decision would be made down within 30 days, gave the plaintiffs 10 days in which to file points of authority.

Many greenhumpers are going to plant fruit trees this season and should be in mind that the plum is probably the easiest of the fruit to grow. Apricots, peaches, pears and apples and cherries are good bets. To. Especially if you plant them in the north end of the county a short time ago, hit again Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joren Dabney, 1751 Sweetwood Dr., Broadmoor Village, Colma.

The burglar opened a bedroom window with a stick, fishing rod or other such item and fished a purse from a dresser while members of the family were sitting in the kitchen. The light was on in the bedroom and the door between the bedroom and kitchen was partly open. And to top it all, the family dog was in the bedroom at the time and didn't utter a sound.

Two wrist watches and a shotgun in the room were untouched. No fingerprints were left.

Valuables recently were "fished" from the home of Prescott Sullivan, San Francisco sports writer, in Garden Village, Colma.

The Tanfo Tangle

Officials of Tanforan Race Track at San Bruno have opened court action against an order of the Civilian Production Administration which halted rebuilding of the track facilities.

In federal court at San Francisco Monday, attorneys representing the track challenged the CPA directive. They contended before Judge A. F. St. Sure that the navy, in relinquishing title to the facility at the track, had assured the owners that the materials left there would be available for reconstruction purposes so that horse racing could resume.

The CPA order halted the work and caused postponement of racing dates previously allotted to Tanforan by the California Horse Racing Commission.

In reply, William E. Licking, chief assistant U. S. attorney, representing CPA, said that labor, deemed essential to vitally needed home construction for veterans, had been used at the track, hence CPA stepped in to halt the work.

Judge St. Sure ordered the case submitted on final briefs.

Another case involving materials from Tanforan track was heard in Federal Judge Michael J. Roche's court. San Francisco Mayor Dabney, when attorneys asked for an order restraining CPA from halting construction of a Russian River summer resort. Materials from dismantled Tanforan buildings had been secured for the work. A 50-unit resort motel had been planned near Guerneville, Judge Roche, in announcing a decision would be handed down within 30 days, gave the plaintiffs 10 days in which to file points of authority.

'Fishing' Burglar

The "fishing burglar" who struck the north end of the county a short time ago, hit again Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joren Dabney, 1751 Sweetwood Dr., Broadmoor Village, Colma.

The burglar opened a bedroom window with a stick, fishing rod or other such item and fished a purse from a dresser while members of the family were sitting in the kitchen. The light was on in the bedroom and the door between the bedroom and kitchen was partly open. And to top it all, the family dog was in the bedroom at the time and didn't utter a sound.

Two wrist watches and a shotgun in the room were untouched. No fingerprints were left.

Valuables recently were "fished" from the home of Prescott Sullivan, San Francisco sports writer, in Garden Village, Colma.

Praise for Genochio

Redwood City Fire Dept. Monday was listed among 280 California organizations or individuals which serve as unpaid weather observers.

An Associated Press dispatch from Washington says: "Uncle Sam has at least 280 Californians working for him part time every day, rain or shine. Sundays and holidays included, without one cent of compensation."

"They are unpaid observers who collect weather data and report it daily to the weather bureau."

Walter T. Genochio, of Fire Station 2, has been Redwood City's official weather observer since 1941. Prior to that Lloyd Fowler had served as weatherman for the department since 1929. Fire Chief Joseph Lodi reported.

The observers use equipment provided by the weather bureau to record the maximum and minimum temperatures every day, the 24-hour rainfall total and observations on local state of the weather and wind direction. The Tribune obtains its information on local weather conditions each day from Genochio or another member of the fire department on duty at Station 2.

The weather bureau finds the information valuable in making climatological studies and for other purposes.

Expressing appreciation for the work of the weather observers, weather bureau officials said they would like more of them at strategic points. A plan has been discussed to express the bureau's gratitude by awarding a certificate to those who have served long periods without remuneration.

Our Fire Dept.

Redwood City firemen answered two calls Sunday outside city limits because the San Mateo County department was out of service for 24 hours covering fires on the Flynn Ranch and on the Half Moon Bay Rd.

All departments on the Peninsula cover in for each other in emergencies of this nature.

At 11:01 a.m. the city department extinguished a grass fire at Douglas and Spring Sts. and at 11:28 p.m. a grass fire at Hillside Rd. and Crescent St., Emerald Lake.

At 7:48 a.m. Monday firemen put out an automobile fire at Jefferson Ave. and Southern Pacific Co. tracks. Damage estimated at $25 was done to the cushions of the vehicle, owned by J. D. Wilkie, 724 Cambridge St., Menlo Park.

An Atherton Divorce

Mrs. Edwina W. Richardson, 50 Winchester, Los Angeles, has granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Maj. Daniel G. Richardson Wednesday by Superior Court Judge Edmund Scott.

Mrs. Richardson was also given custody of the couple's 5-year-old son, Daniel Sydney Richardson, and $150 a month support for the child in an agreement approved by the court dated Aug. 30.

Mrs. Richardson sought a divorce decree last August when her husband returned from occupation duty in Austria and told her that he planned to return to Vienna to marry a woman there by whom he expects a child. The major, who is now on terminal leave, also sought to take his son with him to Austria.

In the settlement Richardson agreed not to leave the United States until he has assurance of a job in Europe for the period of his absence, and unless he shall have directed his employer to pay monthly from his salary the required sum of support.

In addition the major agreed to pay Mrs. Richardson his November terminal leave pay, and a part of his pay for the past three months. Both parties relinquished claims as each other's heir, but Mrs. Richardson was not obliged to give up her rights to any benefits derived from the major's status as a veteran.

Helen and James Wilt, mutual friends of the couple in Taft, where Major Richardson was employed as a petroleum engineer in the oil field before the war, were to be granted custody of the child in the event of Mrs. Richardson's death, the agreement stated.

The couple was married in Atherton in 1932, shortly after Richardson's graduation from Stanford.

They'll Settle Here

Both veterans of World War II, the just-wed Mr. and Mrs. Raymond V. Huntington hope to make their home in Redwood City, where both are now employed, when they return from their honeymoon. The bride, the former Diana Medina, served with the WAC Medical Corps and her husband was with the army infantry overseas during the war. But, like so many other young couples, their future plans are indefinite until they find a place to live.

Traditional white satin fashioned with a long train and a sweetheart neckline with pearl trim was worn by Diana on Sunday afternoon when she became the bride of Raymond in a formal wedding ceremony at the First Methodist Church. The Rev. Jesse Lacken officiated.

Her veil was full length and lace trimmed and she wore a coronet of orange blossoms. Her flowers were white carnations and orchids, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and a corsage of white chrysanthemums. Mr. Andy Sifuentes entertained with colored pictures.

As she left for her honeymoon, Diana was wearing a grey suit and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

She has one brother, Lionel Medina.

The question of whether one element in the economy can disregard the national welfare and disrupt the entire economy rises above the issue of whether that element has just cause in striking. —William K. Jackson, president of U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

The City Council

City Engr. D. S. Wilson Wednesday was starting work on plans for a highway of street automobile parking lot on Perry St. near the Redwood Ice Co. plant.

City councilmen, meeting Monday, passed a resolution overruling all protests to the project and stating their determination to make the improvements.

Part of the funds for the project are to come from a 1944 civic improvement bond issue and the balance is to be assessed against property owners in the downtown business district. Council ordered Wilson to bring in plans and to outline a tentative assessment district to help carry the cost.

Council on Monday also:

Took steps to establish another assessment district to make possible a street widening project on street surrounding the Southern Pacific Co. station. In order to widen these streets the council will have to purchase one-half triangle of land because street widening would ruin its potentialities as a building property.

The setbacks as planned now call for 10 feet on the north side of El Camino Real and the station, on the southerly side of Winkler St. between California St. and the station, and on the easterly side of California between Winkler and James.

Wilson's tentative assessment district for this project would run along El Camino Real from the station to the creek south of James Ave., along the creek to SP tracks, along the tracks to Broadway, along Broadway to the westerly side of a Bank of America building, and of industrial buildings, Tribune Bldg. and the Redwood Theater Bldg. and then to El Camino Real again.

Approved a suggestion by C. G. Uhlenberg, accountant, that he make a quarterly instead of monthly report to the city on governmental finances. Uhlenberg was first ordered to report to council on city finances during the administration of R. W. Mead as city manager. Since that time council has taken most of the money spending controls in the city under its own jurisdiction.

Garden Tips

Such fine reports are coming in with the requests for the trial of seeds of Nantes Strongtop Carrot seeds (enough for 10 ft.), that we're going to enjoy the trial for a while. It's good to know: WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING: W. S. Nelson—"I always have onions growing. . . some four pounds measure 18 inches long. . . I never get one to seed. One of Improved Pearson tomato vines produced 60 to 70 fruits, averaging half pound each.

For my ground and best tomatoes I find from blooming stage on five quarts of water for each plant is best. . . Questions: (1) I have used commercial fertilizer mixed in furrows when seeds were planted. . . it helped some. . . others not. Will you clarify this? (2) When onions shoot up seed stems, I cut them out close to the center but they keep growing. . . I don't know what to do. (3) Squash get small spots and dry up quickly and die."

(1) Commercial fertilizer in furrows is apt to burn tender roots as they form. Suggest putting on side dressing several inches out from plants, AFTER they're up with several leaves. (2) When onions bolt, that's that. Bending over seed stalk helps some, but best to plant at season when less likelihood of bolting. Seed planted now should produce early crop of cooking onions. (3) Aphids may be cause of squash injury. Also, they spread squash mosaic, a virus. Nicotine dust or spray EARLY is about best control. Clean out dead vines immediately.

H. Rogers reports less success this year than last with squash and tomatoes. Wonder if crops were rotated?

Mrs. J. C. Henderson wants to know how far apart to plant raspberry vines in sun or shade. Sun's the answer with plants two feet apart in rows 4-5 feet apart. Plant as soon as you get the starts.

Mrs. M. B. Mitchell interrupted her summer garden with neglect through a two-week camping trip with her family. . . "I always have enough to share with neighbors."

Mrs. Milda Hester couldn't find a recipe for preserving summer squash. . . "So I just put them in my pressure cooker for one hour at 15 pounds pressure and—they're fine." (It's always best to check the charts and call your county farm adviser when in doubt.)

Walter O. Rogers' family of three enjoyed strawberries at least twice a week to the end of September from 14 plants, watered every fifth day. Right now the plants are eating up his red cabbage. (Time for dusting.)

"I always had difficulty in raising carrots until I tried using excelsior over the seed bed. It kept the ground moist and as the tiny plants push through the soil, I thin the layer of excelsior until they are fairly well established. Easy trick—never fails."

Cori planned July 23 just about ready now. . . Victor tomatoes ripened July 1, but were small. . . Pearsons were, are a joy. Those near the lawn watered twice a week did much better than those getting a weekly drenching. . . Floyd Cowan is giving course on landscaping over here at the Seales High School. . . "Mrs. R. H. Hunt, Lafayette."

"My Victor tomatoes were a complete failure, my Pearsons very good." —Mrs. J. F. McGovern. (Not the variety's fault, I'm sure.)

"I always have carrots growing in my yard—and one ones." Mrs. H. L. Hubbard, Hayward. (These new Nantes Strongtops will be a favorite, odds are.)

Mrs. Carrie Walser has garden peas six inches high. Good. How many can tie that? How many would like to plant garden peas now? . . . all eyes go ahead. They ought to be okay. . . Ira J. Markhams of Concord, (any relation to the man with a hoe? . . . were away most of summer, but friends kept their garden going.)

J. E. Brannin: Layer English Holly in the Spring. Redwood leaves are very slow to decompose, wouldn't advise them for compost heap on this account.

Andrew M. King: "On that garden center proposition, be sure to save a spot for the organic gardener and his worms, as opposed to your scientist with his chemicals." . . . It takes a difference of opinion to get a variety, which they say, is the spice of life.

More Vandalism

Ninety-nine windows in new homes on Page St., Friendly Acres, were broken Tuesday, and a house in North Palo Alto was bombarded by light bulbs filled with red paint, and sheriff's officers Wednesday were investigating two groups of juveniles suspected as being responsible for the acts of vandalism.

Damage amounting to $396 was caused to the Friendly Acres homes, according to John Lowery, Richard Delucchi and Nelson Welbanks, victims of the window-breaking. Three brothers and a neighbor boy, ranging in age from 10-14 years are being investigated by sheriff's deputies.

Another group of juveniles, believed to be of high school age, are under suspicion for the paint bombs, and while Probation Officer J. S. Cowgill said Wednesday he believes the act was a post-Halloween outburst, sheriff's men think that it may be the result of a feud between neighborhood children.

Some San Mateo Plans

San Mateo will reappraise its property values, order a new census, and raise the pay of its employees in the lower brackets it was announced Wednesday by City Mgr. A. E. Sullivan following a special caucus of the city council after Monday night's regular meeting.

The reappraisal, already started in Redwood City and planned by eight other Peninsula cities, has been under study for some time. Purpose is to equalize tax burdens, now based on 1932 evaluation.

The special census, which would bring added revenue to the city from the state gas tax, also has been announced before, although Tuesday night's action was the first official declaration of city policy.

Amount of the raise for city workers, not announced previously, is not known yet, Sullivan said. But employees now earning $174 a month would be increased to $180 a month, and street departmenters will benefit most. The raise will be effective the first of the year.

Sullivan said city revenues are higher than estimates, making a fund available to increase salaries of personnel. The lowest-paid workers will receive the highest proportionate raise.

Sullivan said the reappraisal would commence as soon as Leonard Clemmshaw, New York appraisal engineer, can get a team of experts here to do the work. It is expected to be completed by June 1 of 1947. The change will not appear on tax rolls until 1948, Sullivan said. Cost to the city of the survey is estimated at $30,000.

A Visit to Sequoia

Greetings from Mrs. Mabel W. Hughes, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, was brought to the members of the Sequoia Parent Teacher's Assn. executive board yesterday morning, when it met at 10 o'clock at the school for the regular monthly meeting.

Bearer of the greetings was Miss Mildred Horton, a member of the national executive staff. Miss Horton impressed the members with the greatness of the organization when she stated that the Sequoia unit was one of 27,000 units and that each member was one of nearly four million members to the National Congress.

She also stated that the National Congress had set the following goals: (1) school educational work to overcome teacher scarcity, (2) to raise the health standards, (3) education to home and family living and to make parenthood a profession, (4) world citizenship and to promote interest in the UN.

Another guest, Mrs. Mark Jones, college extension chairman of the State of California, spoke on the needs for participation of student teachers and teachers in service in P.T.A.

During the business meeting, Mrs. S. M. Mayo, parliamentary, spoke on amendment changes needed in the bylaws. Mr. Donald Bogle made an appeal to the members to aid in housing for the all-day Northern California Teachers' Conference, to be held Saturday at Sequoia as a part of the Youth Authority program. Five hundred boys and girls are expected to attend the session.

In order that the unit might meet the P.T.A. requirements, discussion of the need of a study group was held.

Attending the meeting were: Mmes. Seely Hall, Fred Schmitz, Charles Bersinger, John Furnas, S. Mayo, John Garland, B. F. Myers, Harold Dimick, Max Gelber and Mr. A. C. Argo.

$5000 Left Behind

Palo Alto Cab Driver Joseph F. McDevitt, of 206 Donohoe St., East Palo Alto, gave a well-dressed passenger, Alfred W. Rhodes, on the Bayshore Hwy. to San Francisco. The passenger got out, paid him, and then walked off. Before he drove away, McDevitt noticed an envelope lying near the taxi, apparently dropped by the man. Picking it up, he found it contained five $1000 United States Series "E" savings bonds. He tried to find his ex-passenger, but could not, he later declared, recounting the tale.

He reported the incident to his boss, who in turn notified Palo Alto police. The bonds were made out to Chester W. Barlow of Honolulu, payable on death to Mrs. Mabel C. Patterson of Salinas. Police are investigating.

Realty Firm Sued

Harold and Ida Rhodes, San Carlos real estate operators, were named in a suit filed in the county clerk's office Wednesday by Thos. J. Callan, which seeks to obtain as security on a loan made to Rhodes by Callan promissory notes and second liens on property in the San Carlos White Oaks subdivision partly financed by the loan.

According to the complaint, Rhodes obtained from Callan $2500 to finance sale of the White Oaks property, and in return agreed to secure for Callan a note from the purchasers, Alfred W. Rhodes and Evelyn Tranz, and also a second lien against the premises in Callan's name.

Callan charges that the Rhodes put their own names on the note and lien instead of his, and is seeking the court to order the Rhodes to endorse the liens and notes to him, hold the note in trust for him, and pay costs and other relief.

About Blasting

The board of supervisors directed the district attorney to immediately abate the nuisance caused by blasting in the hills behind Millbrae, Wednesday in their regular meeting in the Redwood City courthouse.

The question of whether the Maceo Construction Co. may continue its blasting operations is now thrown into the lap of the federal court, Daniel E. Sullivan, assistant district attorney, explained.

This Action Ended the Second Round of a Fight Between the Millbrae and San Bruno Residents and their Representatives with the Company's Attorney, Delancy Smith of Berkeley.

The company is under contract to supply six million yards of dirt for a fill to expand the San Francisco Municipal Airport in South San Francisco by February, and it claims it can't fulfill its contract if it isn't allowed to continue the blasting.

After Smith pointed out that the company was under contract to supply dirt for a five mile stretch of the Bayshore freeway, and its operations would continue in the huge pit for at least another year or longer, the residents were up in arms. They said they would not stand for any more blasting of any kind.

Mrs. John Humphrey, 265 Cypress St. San Bruno, said that the day after the test a figurine "walked right off the mantel" during the blasting. F. W. Schram charged that one of the blasts awakened him, and not only he, but his bed was shaking. The community asked for peace of mind at any cost.

Stanford to Fly

Passage was booked today on Pan American World Airways Clippers for 40 members of the Stanford football team, who will travel to Honolulu next month to meet the University of Hawaii eleven. Because of the heavy demand for Clipper reservations, the Indians will travel in three groups, 15 leaving on Dec. 17, 14 on Dec. 18 and 11 on Dec. 19. After meeting Hawaii on Dec. 21, the Indians are booked to return to San Francisco on Dec. 27, 28 and 29.
